

Ohio's Noxious Weed Laws

*Peggy Kirk Hall, Asst. Professor and Field Specialist

"Noxious weeds" are plants that can injure humans, ecosystems and agricultural crops and livestock due to their invasiveness, toxicity and other harmful characteristics. Like most states, Ohio has established processes for minimizing the negative impacts of noxious weeds. The following provisions of Ohio law address noxious weeds designation, management and eradication.

Designation of noxious weeds

Years ago, Ohio's legislature gave authority to the director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture (ODA) to designate "prohibited noxious weeds." ODA's current list of noxious weeds is in Ohio Administrative Code 901:5-37-01 and includes the following:

- Shatter cane (Sorghum bicolor)
- Russian thistle (Salsola Kali var. tenuifolia)
- Johnsongrass (Sorghum halepense L. (Pers.))
- Wild parsnip (Pastinaca sativa)
- Wild carrot (Queen Anne's lace) (Daucus carota L.)
- Oxeye daisy (Chrysanthemum leucanthemum var. pinnatifidum)
- Wild mustard (Brassica kaber var. pinnatifida)
- Grapevines: when growing in groups of one hundred or more and not pruned, sprayed, cultivated, or otherwise maintained for two consecutive years.
- Canada thistle (Cirsium arvense L. (Scop.))
- Poison hemlock (Conium maculatum)
- Cressleaf groundsel (Senecio glabellus)
- Musk thistle (Carduus nutans)
- Purple loosestrife (Lythrum salicaria)
- Mile-A-Minute Weed (Polygonum perfoliatum)
- Giant Hogweed (Heracleum mantegazzianum)
- Apple of Peru (Nicandra physalodes)
- Maretail (Coryza canadensis)
- Kochia (Bassia scoparia)
- Palmer amaranth (Amaranthus palmeri)
- Kudzu (Pueraria montana var. lobata)
- Japanese knotweed (Polygonum cuspidatum)

Noxious weeds along public roadways

Ohio law requires counties, townships and municipalities to cut or destroy all noxious weeds, brush, briars, burrs, and vines growing along roads and streets within their jurisdictions. Cutting of the vegetation must occur every year between June 1 and 20, August 1 and 20, and if necessary, September 1 and 20, or whenever it's necessary to destroy the vegetation to prevent or eliminate a safety hazard. Ohio Revised Code (ORC) 5579.04 and ORC 5579.08. Willfully failing, neglecting, or refusing to cut, destroy, or remove such weeds and vegetation can lead to criminal misdemeanor charges. ORC 5589.11.

Noxious weeds along toll roads and railroads

Responsibility for noxious weeds growing within a toll road, railroad or railway right-of-way rests with the company's superintendent or manager. Ohio law requires the superintendent or manager to destroy noxious weeds, brush, briars, burrs and vines according to the same schedule described above for the cutting of noxious weeds along roadways. The duty to destroy the vegetation exists even if the toll road, railroad or railway is not in operation. If destruction of the noxious weeds does not occur, the township trustees may cause the removal of the weeds and may bring a civil action against the company for recovery of the costs. ORC 4959.11.

Noxious weeds in line fence rows

The "line fence law" or "partition fence law" in Ohio requires landowners in unincorporated areas to cut all noxious weeds, brush, briars and thistles within four feet and in the corners of a line fence. A line fence (or partition fence) is a fence that is on the boundary line between two properties. If a landowner fails to keep his or her fence row clear of noxious weeds and other vegetation, Ohio law creates options for adjacent landowners concerned about the weeds. First, an adjacent landowner must request that the other landowner clear the fence row of weeds and must allow the owner ten days to do so. If the weeds still remain after ten days, the complaining landowner may notify the township trustee. Once notified, the township trustees must view the property and determine whether there is sufficient reason to remove weeds and vegetation from the fence row. If so, the township trustees may hire someone to clear the fence row and the county auditor will assess the costs on the neglectful landowner's property taxes. ORC 971.33 to 971.35.

Noxious weeds on private land beyond the fence row

Ohio's township trustees must also become involved when a landowner fails to destroy noxious weeds on private land beyond the fence row. The procedure begins when the township trustees receive written information that noxious weeds exist on a parcel in the township. The township trustees must then notify the owner or other party responsible for the land about the existence of noxious weeds. The owner must either destroy the weeds or show the township trustees why there is no need for doing so. If the owner does not take one of these actions within five days of the trustee's notice, the township trustees must cause the weeds to be cut or destroyed. The county auditor assesses the costs for destroying the weeds against the owner's real property taxes. ORC 5579.05(A) to ORC 5579.07.

Similar provisions in Ohio law exist for the cutting of noxious weeds on private land within a municipality. ORC 731.51 to 731.53.

Noxious weeds on certain public lands

When notified that noxious weeds are growing on land that is owned or managed by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources or on park land owned or managed by the state or a political subdivision, Ohio law requires the township trustees to notify the county Extension Educator. The Extension Educator must form a committee with a person designated by the state or political subdivision, the landowner, and a designated supervisor of the soil and water conservation district. Within five days of the date the township provided the notice of noxious weeds, the committee must meet and "consider ways to deal with the problem." The committee must report its findings and recommendations to the township trustees. We presume that the township trustees are to share the noxious weed report and recommendations with the ODNR or political subdivision but strangely, Ohio law does not require the board of trustees to do so. ORC 5579.05(B).

Frequently asked questions about noxious weed laws

My neighbor doesn't keep his fence row clear of noxious weeds. What should I do about it? First, talk to the neighbor. If the neighbor doesn't respond favorably, the second step is to provide the neighbor a written notice of the law that states that he or she has ten days to clear the noxious weeds. If the neighbor still doesn't take action, send a written notice of the weeds to the township trustees, who must then determine whether there is a valid need to clear the weeds. If so, the trustees can order the weeds removed and assess the costs to your neighbor's property tax bill.

I've been notified by my township trustees that I have noxious weeds on my property. What should I do? You must respond within five days of the date the trustees notified you about the weeds or the trustees will have the authority to destroy. Your options are to destroy or cut the weeds or to provide information to the township trustees showing that there is no need to take action. For example, such information might include showing that noxious weeds don't exist on the property or showing that plants were incorrectly identified as noxious weeds.

Do I have to destroy my crop if noxious weeds are on my land? No, Ohio law states only that you must "cut or destroy the weeds."

Noxious weeds are growing in the road right-of-way. Can I remove them myself and charge the township for my costs? You may remove the noxious weeds, but you will probably not receive reimbursement unless the township trustees violated their duty to cut the weeds even after you followed the proper legal process for demanding their action. If the township or county fails to mow the right of way as required by law, you should formally complain in writing or at a public meeting and should confer with the county prosecutor. Seeking reimbursement prior to following this process is not the proper method for enforcing the township or county's duty, according to the Court of Appeals in Mezger v. Horton, 2013 Ohio 2964.
